TELESFORO BRAVO TRAIL

This trail climbs up over the apical cone of Mount Teide to its highest point, which was built up during the volcano's last eruption. The challenge of climbing the highest peak in Spain, along with the 360° views practically from the sky, make this trail one of the most popular in the entire National Park. In order to avoid overcrowding and to safeguard conservation, a limit has been imposed on the number of visitors allowed each day. To access this trail, you have to obtain a special permit in advance and show it, together with the documentation, before you start.
